Understanding Allotment Levels: When Should You Allot to the Lowest Level?

Mailea Adams, Director of Budget Nona McCall, Director of Financial Services May 7, 2024

Session G Objectives

- What is an Allotment
- Types of Revenue
 - Statutory and Other Revenues
 - Forfeitures
 - Projects
- Rolled-up (L3) or Detailed Allotments (L5)
- Reporting
- Why this is important

What is an Allotment?

- An allotment represents the division or allocation of an appropriation between one or more organizational levels within a budget entity.
- The totality of the amounts allotted by organizational levels cannot exceed the total amount of the appropriation by budget entity, category, and fund.

What is an Allotment?

- Allotments are created by an agency to help manage budget and spending.
- Each JRO decides how low allotments are recorded.
 - Example L3 (21-50-99) or L5 (21-50-99-00-400)?

For this discussion we focus on Org code since Orgs are created to identify projects or types of revenues. However, an Org/EO will be used for allotments.

What is an Allotment?

- Allotments to L5 may be needed or desired in some areas or funds but it's not required
- When should L3 and L5 allotments be used? It depends on:
 - the JRO needs for the types of revenue received
 - the level of budget tracking desired

Types of Revenue

- Types of revenues received have expanded and changed over time
- Types:
 - Statutory and Other revenue
 - Forfeitures
 - Projects

Statutory and Other Revenues

- State Revenue:
 - These are often driven by statute or GAA
 - Examples: Fees, fines, restitution, cost of prosecution, refunds, and surcharges
 - State Revenue is meant to supplement what's received from General Revenue.
 - No agreement required

Statutory and Other Revenues

- JROs want to know how much revenue is received by type.
- These revenues do not generally have specific use requirements like forfeitures or projects.

^l Forfeitures

- State Attorneys receive State and Federal forfeitures
 - Separate Org/EOs are provided to track each type of forfeiture.
 - Federal Forfeitures have specific use requirements as outlined by the Federal Government. There is a guide outlining its usage.

[https://www.justice.gov/criminal/media/1044326/dl]

Projects

- Broad definition of a Grant
 - any reimbursement agreement, state, county, private, or federal grant that will provide funding for a specific purpose or project.

Let's refer to the all revenue agreements as a project

Projects - Funding & Budget

- All projects should be supported by a signed agreement
- An agreement outlines:
 - -funding amount
 - duration of the project
 - funding requirements
 - eligible costs
- A budget amendment may be needed for additional budget authority.

Projects - Accounting

- Accounting will establish a new FLAIR
 Org/EO in Grants and Donations (G&D)
- Org/EOs separate "projects" in the FLAIR records

Projects - Accounting

- When a reimbursement is received, code the deposit to the project Org/EO
- When cash is available, expenditures tied to the reimbursement can be moved (i.e., journal transferred) to the project Org/EO in G&D

Allotment Options

Now that we've discussed the different types of revenue, let's review some allotment options for the different funds and needs

Rolled-up Allotments

- For General Revenue, most JROs record allotments at L3 (21-50-99-00-000)
- All JROs have a trust fund for statutory revenues
 - State Attorney Revenue Trust Fund
 - Indigent Criminal Defense Trust Fund
 - Indigent Civil Defense Trust Fund
 - CCRC Trust Fund

Rolled-up Allotments

- For these trust funds with statutory revenues, why are allotments recorded using L5?
 - Is that how they were done previously?
 - What benefit does this level provide?
 - Is there a set amount that will be spent?
 - Do you send allotment adjust requests to move funds between L5s?

L3 or L5 Allotments?

- Forfeitures have to be spent as required, but does the budget have to also be at L5?
 - If you don't know how much State or Federal will be spent, then why allot to L5.
 - The allotment can be at L3 and still be spent at L5.

Detailed Allotments and G&D

- Should G&DTF allotments be to L5?
 - It depends on the JRO needs and what the JRO knows about each project
 - Do allotments have to be at L3 OR L5?
 - Allotments can be mixed
 - Allot to L5 for projects with set or firm amounts
 - Allot to L3 for projects with variable amounts like reimbursements for OT (HIDTA or Task Forces)

Detailed Allotments and G&D

- Should G&DTF allotments be to L5?
 - If the amount needed for the project is known and it's critical the funds be held for it, then allot the funds at L5
 - If the project has a cap that is fully used each year, allot the funds at L5 for this project.

Detailed Allotments and G&D

- Should G&DTF allotments be to L5?
- Examples:
 - JAC's Foster Care Review project is a fixed amount in a special restricted use category. Allot to L5.
 - JAC has Salary budget for Title IV-E and for spending Indirect
 - A IV-E L5 allotment for an estimate will hold funds for the project
 - The remaining amount will be allotted to L3

Allotments Recap

- Track at the level that gives the JRO the level of tracking needed, but doesn't go into so low that allotment adjustments are frequently requested.
- Make sure there is value with allotting to the selected level.
- By fully understanding allotments, users can make decisions that improve reports' usefulness.

Why is this Important?

- FLAIR allows users to override warnings.
 - Today, when an invoice entry causes an insufficient release warning, users can override when:
 - There isn't enough at the Org level, but there is plenty for the Fund
 - The quarterly release or a budget amendment will be post the next day.
- PALM blocks allotment overspending

Why is this Important?

- If PALM blocks payments due to allotment issues at the Org level
 - The payment is held until resolution of the allotment issue
 - Budget will need to work with the JRO to correct the allotments
 - The prompt payment clock creates an urgency for resolution
 - Major process change for the JROs
